Volume 24 No 11

I am very pleased to tell you that this is my last Snippets as the sole new Snippets co-editor. Sheena will be back from overseas very soon. Thank you so much for dealing with my idiosyncrasies as I have come to terms with Mailchimp and family-history oriented material. It has been fun, but i will appreciate having Sheena around.

It has been intriguing to learn about the wide-ranging backgrounds of members whose family have come from so many parts of the world! So many Australian families seem to be a rich mix of Europeans, Asians, Africans, Americans and more. Which is partly why this Society exists, perhaps. People can search out interesting and at times unknown facts about their past, especially with the ever-growing availability of on-line databases.

While reading comments from some new members about what a wide range of resources they are able to gain access through QFHS, I have become aware of the extent of my own ignorance. Do you know how many datasets are available to you through the QFHS website, and often at minimal or no cost? Do take a few minutes to look through them! You might find material relevant to your family background of which you were unaware.

By the way, Sheena and I are planning to put out a very limited Snippets in December, just notifying you of early events next year and saying happy Christmas. It may go out a little earlier than usual, so please let us know as soon as possible about anything you would like people reminded about, or any other items of interest.

Just in case you miss the next issue - happy Christmas!

New Queensland Family Historian is out!

The November issue of the Queensland Family Historian has just been issued. The Historian can be found on the QFHS website at 'Resources/Documents'. The latest edition is 'Queensland Family Historian Vol 45 No. 4 Nov 2024'..

Introducing ... Volunteer profile

Jenny Davidson: convenor of the English West Country SIG

Jenny Davidson is a QFHS volunteer with several roles.

The English West Country SIG began in 1991 and has 43 members, who research in Cornwall, Devon, Dorset, and Somerset family history. Jenny has been in this group for 18 years, and convenor for eight. Members meet informally via Zoom every two months to share recent breakthroughs, difficulties, interesting websites or books, and research techniques. The group's ancestors had careers in mining, construction, the clergy, and maritime industries including Merchant and Royal Navies.

As convenor, Jenny sets up the Zoom meetings, emails members before and after (with notes), and runs the meeting. You can email englishwestcountry@qfhs.org.au to join the group. Maps, books, and hard copy journals are available at the QFHS Resource Centre.

Another role Jenny fulfills is supporting Presenting ... sessions via Eventbrite and Zoom. This takes a few hours every couple of weeks. Jenny finds organizing the Zoom sessions okay, but Eventbrite is more challenging.

Jenny joined QFHS about 2006 because it was situated close to family. Her areas of interest include Germanic countries, DNA, Scotland, and England. Jenny loves learning the history of the early days of what is now south-east Queensland. An interesting snippet is that Jenny's mother's paternal grandfather was known only as John Johnson, but he was supposedly Dutch, possibly from what's now Germany - hence her interest in DNA.

One of Jenny's great-grandfathers came to Brisbane in the late 1850s with his siblings and parents, and she is a certificated member of our Queensland Pre-Separation Group. Membership is open to those who have at least one ancestor who lived in Queensland pre-separation (i.e. before 10 December 1859).

The day Jenny joined the English West Country SIG meeting, there were six attendees and a few apologies. The lack of numbers was immaterial, because enthusiasm and sharing of information flowed. She was able to talk about my Williams and Buncombe family connections with Fowey, in Cornwall.

Jenny has ancestors from all four counties covered by this SIG, and loves discussing her research with others. She showed us photos from her travels in the English West Country. She explained she had found records for her second cousin three times removed, Isaac Hawker, born in 1835 in Devon, from where in the 1860s he paid poor rates. She also found him in water rental books.

Jenny Davidson is another enthusiastic and active QFHS volunteer. She also loves cooking, and I wonder if she has recipes from each of her family interest counties.

AND MORE: read this article to learn what one member gained from attending a previous QFHS New Members' Welcome and Orientation.

Facilitated by Ann Swain, Tony Swain and Anne Long

I attended this event at 9.30 on 17 August 2024 at the QFHS library at 46 Delaware St, Chermside. Along with Linda Cartmill and Paula Pyburne, I signed in. A chat over morning tea broke the ice before we sat together to begin the orientation.

All three leaders of the meeting were knowledgeable, committed and truly approachable, so asking questions was not a problem.

Ann and Tony Swain, joint Member Fives, have helped the Society be what it is today through their initiative, enthusiasm and, dare I say, their long commitment. Ann is also the DNA group convenor and Queensland Pre-Separation joint convenor, while Tony is the finance officer for Shop Support and USB production. Both are frequently onsite to welcome those who call in.

Anne Long is research coordinator.

I have been a member of QFHS for some years but had never done the orientation. We each spoke about our family research interests. Linda will be known to you as the QFHS award-winning author of From Green to Gold – The Cartmill Family Journey from Armagh to Australia. It was Paula's first visit to the centre, and she was clearly excited by the comprehensive range of facilities and resources.

Anne Long gave us a guided tour of the centre's resources, pointing out microfiche, maps, journals, books for borrowing, library, and research folders along the way.

Tony then took us to the computers to show us how to conduct our own research both at the centre and remotely. He sent each of us to locate a book of individual relevance and we were shown how to insert the BOOK MARKER to relocate the spot later. I found an ancestor's name in the book I'd been sent to locate!

While we were there, a talented library helper arrived and sat at a particular computer to transfer to USB research material requested by members. It is astounding the amount of quality material that is available, so if you have not done this orientation session, I strongly recommend that you do.

I am so thankful I was there. Ann, ever the scientist, pointed out how the tree-filled location allowed members to breathe in endorphins and feel better.

Members Lounge – Book Group

Commentary

Comments from member Dornell Wylie on discussion of Killing for Country by David Marr at a Book Group meeting held on 28 October.

Killing for Country is an important contribution to truth-telling, and David Marr relates, with unforgiving honesty, the part that two of his male ancestors played in the Frontier Wars. Both served with the Native Police. He does not include Indigenous voices because he believes that is not his place. Marr used AustLang database for names of Aboriginal peoples and the AIATSIS map of Indigenous Australia. The book was first published in 2023, with two reprints that same year.

Members present (via zoom) were thoughtful in their contributions about the selected book, which was considered rather challenging, both in material and style. Bettina joined from the Blue Mountains and Chris joined from Rockhampton, so don't think you have to be local for this fascinating member activity. Alex pointed out that there is information about Rockhampton listed in the index to Killing for Country. That index covers 16 pages, so Killing for Country is a thoroughly researched account.

Some telling quotes: 'Neither man doubted the land was theirs for the taking'; 'When whites were out to kill, any black would do'. What is Marr telling us of the true nature of humans? Think about the story behind Animal Farm by George Orwell. Consider what is happening in the Middle East right now.

Members Lounge – Talking About ...

Ambulance Services

Facilitator: Nancy Edwards

When: 27 November 2024 at 10am
AEST

Where: QFHS Research Centre, 24

Delaware St,
Chermside

How have ambulance services touched your lives, and your ancestors' lives, both now and in the past?

First responders have a long history, be it with Queensland's Ambulance Transport Brigade, St John Ambulance Association, RFDS or Australian Field Ambulance military units, and be it by horse-drawn vehicle in the past or helicopter today.

Your or your ancestor's connection may be glancing - a mention in a newspaper of attendance at a broken arm or sitting on an advisory committee or fund-raising committee. Perhaps there was a life and death situation. Perhaps your ancestor was a trained professional - bearer, officer, superintendent, paramedic or doctor. What about the differences between rural and urban services?

If you would like to share your own experience, or your family history discovery, ask a question or simply catch up with other family historians for a chat, come along to this session.

We hope we never need an ambulance, but we are glad those services have been there for our families and our ancestors.

Please note. This event does not have a presenter. Social connection and learning will be promoted by a facilitator providing discussion opportunities for the participants, through prompts, conversation and chat messages.

The event will not be recorded.

NOTE: This session will have a limited number of tickets to ensure everyone gets their chance to participate in the discussion. Therefore, if you are booked and realise you are now unable to attend, please advise us so we can reallocate your ticket to someone on the waitlist.

Les Moreland Scrapbook Index

There are 6,984 entries in the Les Moreland Scrapbook index, many from German sources. These point into a collection of 2,284 PDF files (not images). Some of the PDFs are excellent but other photocopies, done in the 1980s and 1990s, are not particularly clear. Nonetheless they can provide relevant information and may allow a better copy of the document to be located from current online sources.

This new and unique index has been added to Queensland Family History Society's valuable collection of searchable datasets. Our 62 searchable datasets provide access to information in electoral rolls, school admissions records, shipping and migration, occupations, cemeteries to name a few categories. While over half a million entries are available for online search by the general public, some 15 million more are reserved for QFHS members only.

What is in the Les Moreland Scrapbook index

- Births, baptisms, marriages, banns, deaths, and burials
- Confirmations
- Naturalisations
- Impfung – vaccination (from Impfschein, vaccination certificate)
- Bürgerrechts-Verzichts – waiver of civil rights (in preparation for emigration)
- Reise Pass – permission to travel
- Auswandern Erlaubnis – permission to emigrate

The Doolans of Pine Mountain and Peak Crossing

by Mary Mahon

Recently, the book launch took place of The Doolans of Pine Mountain and Peak Crossing, written by Mary Mahon.

The Pine Mountain and Districts Historical Society hosted the launch of this captivating book, which explores the deep familial ties and remarkable journeys of two Doolan brothers, Michael and James and their sister Catherine. They emigrated from Ireland to Pine Mountain and Peak Crossing regions in southern Queensland in the 1860s.

This remarkable and meticulously researched work reveals their struggles and successes.

Michael was 24 years old when he arrived in South Queensland with his wife Susan, their infant son Patrick, and Michael's 9 year old sister Catherine. With hard work they cleared the land and established a successful farm at Pine Mountain, where Michael became a community leader.

James was 16 when he arrived in Australia, where in the first couple of years he worked in a variety of jobs across the country, from Tasmania to the unexplored wilds of far North Queensland.

These three Doolans became successful. They and their many descendants married into the Mahon, Smith, Sherlock, Culhane, McInally, McAvoy, Fitzgerald, and Dredge families, who also settled in the Pine Mountain and Peak Crossing regions.

The Pine Mountain and Districts Historical Society honours their stories. They shaped the community's heritage. This book offers invaluable insights into local history and ancestral roots.

How to seek a Coat of Arms

A public lecture by Peter Huxley

When: Sunday 24 November 2024 at 2pm

Where: Toowong Library Meeting Room, Toowong Village

Gold coin entrance – all are welcome

For more information, email PeterSHuxley@outlook.com

About the speaker

Peter Huxley, like his parents, has had a life-long interest in family history. In his teens, he inherited a silver spoon with an engraved heraldic crest. This started his passion for heraldry.

Heraldry refers to all matters of the duties and responsibilities of the officers of arms. This term is frequently and incorrectly used as a synonym for Armory which is but one of the many duties of the heralds. Armoury is Peter's main interest this being the hereditary use of an arrangement of charges or devices centred on a shield, originating in the feudal society of Western Europe.

His father was granted a coat of arms from The College of Arms in London 1984. Peter acted as his father's agent. Through his Scottish ancestry, Peter has had his arms recognised by (matriculated) the Lord Lyon of Scotland.

Peter is a member of The Heraldry Society and The Australian Heraldry Society, a former Vice-President (Qld).

Now he is acting as agent for his English son-in-law in obtaining a grant of arms from The College of Arms, London. Peter is also assisting the Irish father of his other son-in-law in obtaining a grant of Arms but on this occasion from the Chief Herald of Ireland.

Peter is well qualified to discuss the subject of petitioning for a grant of arms.

Unlock the Past: a two-day seminar about researching your family's history

Gould Genealogy is a business that publishes Unlock The Past (UTP) titles and also conducts UTP Cruises. One such cruise is scheduled to take place later this year. Along the way they will also conduct several land-based seminars in Australia featuring their internationally recognised speakers Chris Paton & Mia Bennett.

QFHS & GSQ were consulted about the likely viability of a two-day event in Brisbane. We were given the option for an exhibition table at the event. The location is almost next door and the event provides an opportunity to position QFHS in front of family historians. Therefore, Management Committee agreed to sponsor the event.

QFHS is pleased to be associated with this exciting event and we will have a table there to publicise the society. We'll be looking for volunteers to promote the society so please look out for details in November's Snippets.

Volunteers needed for Unlock the Past Seminar

The last big local genealogical event on the calendar is the 1 or 2 day seminar on England, Ireland, Scotland and DNA presented by Gould Genealogy with international experts Mia Bennett and Chris Paton on the 11th and 12th December at Geebung RSL.

We need volunteers to staff the QFHS table for both days. There will be 2 hour slots from 9.30 – 4.00 pm

As QFHS has no registration or administrative duties for this seminar, we are only asking for friendly faces to represent the society and provide information to enquirers. You are sure to be speaking to fellow Family History enthusiasts.

If you already plan to attend the seminar, you may be able to include some volunteer time in your program.

Please email volunteering@qfhs.org.au if you are able to give some time; it would be much appreciated.

The Harry Gentle Resource Centre (School of Humanities, Languages and Social Sciences, Griffith University) has announced the soft launch of the Centre's online Harry Gentle Resource Centre Dictionary of Biography.

This resource is designed to initially recognise those people who lived in the place now known as Queensland, prior to 1860. A unique feature of the dictionary is the inclusion of sources to enable further research into a specific individual.

QFHS members are invited to visit the Centre at this phase of the Dictionary's development, and provide feedback as they refine and enhance the platform.

Hopes and Fears: Australian Migration Stories

A new free exhibition at the National Library - available online for those who cannot visit in person.

It showcases how migrants, who have come from all parts of the globe, have helped to make Australia one of the most diverse nations in the world.

The exhibition features letters to loved ones back home, music recorded by migrants, vintage advertising for boat voyages to Australia, and amazing stories like that of William 'Billy' Blue, an African American transported to Sydney in 1801 for stealing raw sugar and later appointed by Governor Lachlan Macquarie as a harbour watchman and constable.

Visitors will be able to see items such as a convict's uniform from Van Diemen's Land in the 1830s, photos and ephemera from the Snowy Hydro-electric Scheme that employed 60,000 migrants from more than 30 countries and archival photos of multicultural cafes and chefs that brought the taste of home to migrants in various Australian cities.

The exhibition is free and open until February 2025. No bookings required.

If you can't make it to the exhibition in-person, you can explore online on our website, including our exhibition soundtrack.

100 years of Greater Brisbane

The organisers of 100 years of Greater Brisbane has contacted QFHS about its shared calendar for all history and heritage organisations in Brisbane who want to join.

This is a project to commemorate the centenary of the Brisbane City Council—an amalgamation of Brisbane towns and shires in 1924/25 to work as one. This calendar is for heritage groups and history organisations who want to take part in celebrations throughout the year of 2025, sharing their events, coming to the collaborative conferences and open days, and learning from each other.

Please contact paddingtonthenandnow@gmail.com for further information.

More About Greater Brisbane Centenary

QFHS has received another, later message from the organisers of 100 Years of Greater Brisbane:

Hello to all of Brisbane's history groups and heritage organisations, BCC Councillors and friends of heritage. The centenary of the amalgamation of the towns and councils of Greater Brisbane into what we now know as the Brisbane City Council is rapidly approaching, and we are ready for action.

Our social media platforms are open for followers.

Here is our LinkTree: <https://linktr.ee/GreaterBrisbaneCentenary>. This has links to all of our social media and website accounts so it's super easy just to share that around.

Please follow them all, and share this with your organisation's members, staff and volunteers, and ask them to follow.

The website is also done and is live: <https://www.greaterbrisbanecentenary.com.au/>

We have done one blog: <https://www.greaterbrisbanecentenary.com.au/blog> but there is space for loads of articles and we are asking for articles to be sent to us regarding your particular area of interest in the history of the town councils/shires before the amalgamation, and what happened after. Please submit essays about your area of interest to this address, e.g History of the Shire of Toombul; History of the Shire of Taringa; History of the Town of Ithaca etc for all of the areas we are representing. Feel free to get someone in your organisation to send us an article to upload. The more the better!

Now we also want you to send us your events. As soon as possible!

For example, this weekend, the first event we have on the calendar is the Brisbane History Group's Not Quite the Centenary: <https://www.greaterbrisbanecentenary.com.au/events/notquitethecentenary>

The best thing about the website is that every time we upload an event, it automatically adds it into the calendar: <https://www.greaterbrisbanecentenary.com.au/calendar>

No more Google issues, so you can delete the Google calendar material we sent you earlier. You just have to email us your events to this address, and we will upload them onto the website, and then share on our social media channels: <https://www.greaterbrisbanecentenary.com.au/events>

MyHeritage has an important new French historical record collection

MyHeritage has just published an important new historical record collection: France,

Tables of Successions and Absences, 1890–1970. This valuable collection offers an index of deceased or officially missing people from various French departments, spanning 80 years of history. It includes 26 million records, with high quality scanned images.

Gain access to the collection here:

Search France, Tables of Successions and Absences, 1890–1970

This collection is particularly important for researchers of French heritage because it provides a valuable alternative to national death records for this period, which have not yet been digitized or made available online. MyHeritage is currently the only service that offers digitized, online access to this collection.

This release is part of MyHeritage's ongoing effort to build a robust collection of French records. Following the acquisition of Filae, and, more recently, MesAieux.com, MyHeritage now serves as one of the best resources for researching French-speaking ancestors.

The Queenslander

ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY 6d

Published by the Brisbane Newspaper Company, Ltd.,
10, Market Street, Brisbane, Queensland, Australia.

Registered at the G.P.O. Brisbane for transmission by post as a newspaper.

May 10, 1928.

For the past several years, we have chosen an illustrated cover from The Queenslander to add to the header for Snippets.

The Queenslander was launched by the Brisbane Newspaper Company in 1866 and discontinued in 1939. It was the weekly summary and literary edition of the Brisbane Courier, the leading journal in the colony - and, from 1859, the State of Queensland.

With weekly publication spanning 60+ years, there were many (out-of-copyright) images to consider as a header for Snippets.
